J4244/J7244TPWY: Cases in Organizational Culture and Leadership

Fall 2019
T/R 11:00 a.m. – 12:15 p.m.
Lee Hills 101A

Course Prerequisites: J4200, J4204, J4952
3 credit hour course
Online components of the course are administered via Canvas Learning Management System

COURSE OVERVIEW

The course focuses on the role and structure of culture and communication in organizational performance, management, and leadership. Rooted in the principles of ethical leadership and strategic communication, it is designed to help students develop self-awareness, individual skills and abilities that contribute to organizational and team success and a mindset of that emphasizes the importance of taking people with you to achieve big goals. The course is distinctly different from traditional organizational studies because of its focus on insight-driven approaches to leading organizations. Based on the experience and writings of retired Chairman and CEO of Yum! Brands David Novak (MU Journalism Strategic Communication alumnus 1974), this is the one of three courses offered through the MU School of Journalism’s Novak Leadership Institute.

In the first part of the course, you’ll be introduced to David Novak’s principles and tools to aid in self-reflection and your personal development as a leader. You will be challenged to think about your role as a leader within organizations and will develop a plan for accomplishing a big goal within that organization. You’ll review theories and frameworks to analyze organizational culture and be introduced to several tools for assessing different leadership philosophies and approaches. You’ll also explore how leaders and managers effectively create culture, develop vision and values, communicate key messages to employees/stakeholders and overcome barriers to change. During this part of the course you will be introduced to your teams and begin meeting to discuss readings, lectures and exercises. You also will complete online discussions.

The second part of the course is based on the case method approach. You will work in teams to analyze business, marketing, and media organizations in a variety of scenarios. Why do case studies? Because they are based on real-world situations and will give you the opportunity to analyze complex situations and identify causal relationships, diagnose management and cultural factors, and make recommendations to improve performance and communication. Case studies also provide an outlet to apply the analytical theories, frameworks and leadership principles you encounter through course readings and lectures.

In the final part of the course, you’ll conduct ethnographic research involving extensive exploration of an organization’s culture and communication practices. This will involve a range of research approaches, both quantitative and qualitative. Ethnographic research will sensitize you to the role of culture and finetune your observation skills and ability to interpret how employees, customers, and stakeholders understand and interact with the organization. It also will introduce you to social interactionism, a communication approach that holds that meaning lies not in individuals but in their everyday interactions, in relationships, and in broader social system.
PROFESSORS:

Margaret Duffy, (Ph.D., University of Iowa) is a professor in the Strategic Communication Faculty at the Missouri School of Journalism and directs two student-staffed agencies. She is Executive Director of the Novak Leadership Institute. An author and consultant, Duffy conducts research and advises media organizations around the world. Her diverse consulting clients include Estee Lauder and the U.S. Army and she has obtained grants from the Pew and Knight Foundations. An award-winning scholar, Duffy’s research focuses on organizational communication, visual communication, narrative, digital media, news, and persuasion ethics. She is a former marketing executive and serves on the board of the Institute for Advertising Ethics. She has extensive experience in conducting corporate climate studies and communication audits.

Eleanor V. Farnen (BJ, BA, MA, Ph.D. candidate, University of Missouri) is founder of Strategists LLC, a media and marketing consulting firm based in Columbia, MO, and publisher of CityWatch-Columbia. She has taught graduate and undergraduate level courses in the Missouri School of Journalism since 1998, including mass communication theory, quantitative research methods and new media business models. Farnen began her career as chief of public affairs for the Rhode Island Department of Environmental Management, assisting in the development of regulations governing air, land and water resources, public information and corporate compliance. She is a former sales and marketing executive for Honeywell International’s Automotive Sector overseeing national account sales for the FRAM, Bendix and Autolite consumer brands and NASCAR/NHRA motorsports programs. Before returning to the School of Journalism, she was a vice president/group manager for Ketchum Communications in Washington, DC in charge of corporate and environmental accounts. As a consultant, her clients have included Walmart, Verizon Wireless, Hasbro, Southwest Greens, Commerce Bank, The Missouri Press Association, MFA Oil Company and former and sitting U.S. Senators and Governors. She was inducted into the Rollins Society in 2004 and is currently president of the board of directors of the Odyssey Chamber Music Festival and The Plowman International Chamber Music Competition.

Catey Heller Terry (MA, University of Missouri) is the Director of Outreach for the Novak Leadership Institute. She is a communications professional with more than 20 years of experience in New York City, St. Louis and Columbia, MO. She served as a press secretary for a state senator in New York before moving back to the Midwest. In Columbia, she worked at the Missouri School of Journalism first for the Multicultural Management Program and later as the Director of Development, raising more than $30M for the school, including for Lee Hills Hall and seven endowed chairs. Most recently, she was the Executive Director for Advancement Creative Services and Donor Relations at Mizzou. She has been with the institute since its founding and has helped teach the Strategic Leadership and Organizational Culture classes.
COURSE OBJECTIVES

1. To apply leadership principles from David Novak’s Taking People with You (TPWY) leadership program, and from other top leaders and researchers.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

- Attendance at all class meetings and outside of class activities
- Active participation in teams (culture cohort, explained below), completion of team reports
- Completion of in-class exercises and case studies
- Completion of weekly readings and individual online Discussion Questions (DQs)
- Completion of a final project providing research, analysis, and report on an organization’s culture and communication efforts
COURSE STRUCTURE & COMPONENTS

Culture Cohorts
A crucial element of the course will be your Culture Cohort. You will be working in teams of students with the primary goal of learning effective teamwork and cooperation while completing assignments and engaging in productive dialogue. Your group will discuss cases and readings, provide constructive critiques of Cohort members’ work, and identify key learnings.

Cohort Guide Report
At some point over the course of the semester each member of your Culture Cohort will serve as a guide to lead your team’s discussion during a given class period. The guide will be responsible for submitting a summary report of the discussion. At the start of the semester your team will create a Cohort Guide Schedule so you will be able to prepare in advance to lead discussion for your assigned week.

Cohort Reports should include the following:
- One paragraph reflection on your role as the Guide (What did you observe regarding group dynamics? What tactics did you use to help facilitate discussion?)
- Three to five highlights from your group’s discussion related to that week’s topic
- One key learning you find useful in understanding culture and leadership

Note: Weekly Team Reports must be submitted via Canvas by Friday at 5 p.m. during your assigned week. Late submissions lose five points automatically. Each Guide will receive an individual grade based on his or her report.

Weekly Readings & Discussion Questions
Each week, you will have required readings based on the course schedule. Readings may consist of cases, chapters from David Novak’s books, excerpts from other books, relevant articles from credible online or print publications, or scholarly journal articles. Discussion Questions (DQs) must be completed on Canvas by Friday at 11:59 p.m. Comments on (2) peer responses must be completed by Sunday at 11:59 p.m. DQ responses should be 300-500 words in length and list sources using APA Style: (https://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/section/2/10/).

Discussion Question/Case Grading Criteria
1. Response demonstrated thoughtful analysis of the unit and topic, showed critical reflection, and provided strong points, supported with clear examples. (30 pts)
2. Commented on (2) peer responses. Comments demonstrate thoughtful digestion of peer responses and add insight to peers’ thinking on the subject. (5 pts per comment)
3. 5 points automatically subtracted from grade for late submissions
Case Studies
Teams will complete (2) case studies over the course of the semester. Case studies are based on real-world challenges facing organizations in the areas of culture, diversity, ethics, social responsibility, innovation and technology. These cases give you the opportunity to analyze complex situations, diagnose management and cultural factors, and make recommendations to improve performance and communication. Case study deliverables are broken up into two parts: presentation and discussion.

Upon receiving the case scenario, Culture Cohorts will work together to research, analyze, and discuss the issues in the case to develop a thorough understanding of the facts and the principles of leadership and culture that are in effect. Teams also will identify best practices and develop recommendations and compile their analysis in the form of a Keynote or PowerPoint presentation deck.

Teams will have 20 minutes to present their case analysis (deck) in front of the class. The following class period, teams will have a chance to discuss the case in a large group setting. For each case study, teams will get a score out of 150 points for their presentation/deck, participation in discussion and team peer evaluations for each case study.

Final Project – Ethnographic Research: Culture Investigation and Communication Audit
For the final project, teams of three students, acting as consultants, will conduct extensive ethnographic research on an organization, its internal and external communication, and its culture. Each team will use a variety of diagnostic approaches to understand how the organization deals with employees, customers, and other important stakeholders. The final project report must include these elements: secondary research on the organization and business category; an ethnography involving observation/participant observation; analysis and interpretation of communication materials; a combination of survey research, interviews, or focus groups.

You may add additional methodologies based on the differences, challenges, and opportunities each site offers. Prior to conducting the research, you’ll provide a research and analysis plan for approval. Your professors will obtain approvals and help you with the specific guidelines that each organization may require. Data students collect as well as the final report will be shared with the host organization, as they prefer. All data will remain confidential. The final phase of the project will be a presentation to the class and the host organization.

Attendance & Participation
Attendance: You will be allowed two excused absences, BUT you must email one of the professors before the missed class or it will be unexcused. Unexcused absences will receive minus-10 points for participation. Students who have five or more absences may be asked to drop the course or may take an F in the class. All formally announced outside-of-class activities are mandatory and subject to the same policy stated above.

Participation: 1) talk in class and in team breakout sessions, 2) ask relevant questions, 3) give thoughtful responses, 4) demonstrate knowledge of the readings, 5) listen and respond to others, 6) share examples, and 7) complete in-class and outside-of-class activities.

Note: Attendance & participation grades are calculated based on attendance reports plus instructor evaluation of your participation/professionalism during course activities.
Outside of Class Activities
Besides the final project assignment, students will be required to attend a series of outside of class activities to further develop their leadership skills and gain valuable experiences. Activities may include a combination of the following: Breakout COMO Escape Room, Everest Simulation, KC Trip in partnership with VMLYR, Novak Leadership Lecture Series events.

Submitting Work
This course relies heavily on Canvas for assigning and submitting work. It is important that you familiarize yourself with the Canvas platform. Save files often and back up your work on the J-School drive, on another hard drive, or other device. If you are having trouble with Canvas, please contact the Mizzou IT Help Desk at 573-882-5000.

Laptop & Mobile Device Policy
We understand that many of you will want to use your laptop to take notes during class lectures, discussions or LDT breakout sessions. Please exercise professionalism and show respect to your classmates and instructors when using your laptop. Using your laptop or mobile devices for unrelated tasks is both disrespectful and distracting to your peers and instructors. Use of laptops is permitted with the following constraints:

- Using social media or messaging apps during class is prohibited
- Surfing the web during class is prohibited
- Laptops must be used for the sole purpose of taking notes or accessing information relevant to the classroom or LDT discussion
- Cell phones must be silenced and put away during classroom and LDT discussions. Cell phones may be used during class only for conference calls or phone interviews related to the ethnography project
- Students will receive (1) written warning if the above policy is violated
- 20 points (2% of your overall grade) will be deducted from your participation grade for each instance following a warning

GRADING

Your acceptance into the Novak Leadership program is an indication that you have already demonstrated a standard of excellence during your time as a Strategic Communication student. It is assumed that you will continue to perform at this level. Your grade will be based on the combination of your individual efforts, how you work as a member of your team, and your team’s final project and presentation. In addition to receiving feedback from your professors, you also will submit peer evaluations for each of your team members for each of your case studies and final project. This helps ensure that each team member contributes equitably.

4 Online DQs & 1 Cohort Guide Report (40 points each) 200
2 Case Studies (150 points each) 300
Final Project – Instructor/Client Evaluation 250
Final Project - Peer Evaluation 150
Attendance/Participation 100
*Graduate Project 200
Total Points Possible: 1000

*Note: Graduate students ONLY must complete one additional project worth 200 points and are graded on 1200-point scale (see "Graduate Student Project" section below). For graduate students, any grade 69.9% or less is not considered a passing grade.

COURSE POLICIES

Canvas
Instructors will communicate, distribute materials and conduct online assessments in Canvas. It is your responsibility to regularly check the course Canvas site for new developments and to monitor your grade for the course. If you think a grading mistake has been made, it is your responsibility to contact me within one calendar week of posting. After one calendar week, all grades are final. Official emails will be sent only to your Paw Print email account. If you would like in-depth tutorials on how to use Canvas, please visit guides.canvaslms.com

University Policies
Within the Syllabus tab of the Canvas course site, students will find links to various university policies on academic issues, copyright and acceptable use, as well as a statement of nondiscrimination. Additionally, here are policies related specifically to this course and the Missouri School of Journalism.

Academic Integrity
Academic honesty is fundamental to the activities and principles of a university. All members of the academic community must be confident that each person’s work has been responsibly and honorably acquired, developed and presented. Any effort to gain an advantage not given to all students is dishonest whether or not the effort is successful. The academic community regards breaches of the academic integrity rules as extremely serious matters. Sanctions for such a breach may include academic sanctions from the instructor, including failing the course for any violation, to disciplinary sanctions ranging from probation to expulsion.

Academic misconduct includes but is not limited to the following:

- Use of materials from another author w/o citation or attribution
- Use of verbatim materials from another author w/o citation or attribution
- Extensive use of materials from past assignments w/o permission of your instructor
- Extensive use of materials from assignments in other classes w/o permission of instructor
- Fabricating information in news or feature stories, whether for publication or not
- Fabricating sources in news or feature stories, whether for publication or not
- Fabricating quotes in news or feature stories, whether for publication or not
- Lack of full disclosure or permission from editors when controversial reportorial techniques, such as going undercover to get news, are used

When in doubt about plagiarism, paraphrasing, quoting or collaboration, consult with your instructor. For closed-book exams and exercises, academic misconduct includes conferring with other class members, copying or reading someone else's test and using notes and materials without prior permission of the instructor. For open-book exams and exercises, academic misconduct includes copying or reading someone else's work.

Classroom Misconduct
Classroom misconduct is defined by the University of Missouri’s collected rules and regulations are also outlined in the M-Book Student Code of Conduct.

Classroom misconduct can include obstruction or disruption of teaching, such as late arrival or early departure or failure to turn off mobile devices unless otherwise instructed. Classroom misconduct can also include misuse of computing resources, harassment, bullying, physical abuse or safety threats; theft; property damage; disruptive, lewd or obscene conduct; abuse of computer time; repeated failure to attend class when attendance is required; and repeated failure to participate or respond in class when class participation is required.

Dishonesty and Misconduct Reporting Procedures
MU faculty are required to report all instances of academic dishonesty or classroom misconduct to the appropriate campus officials. Allegations of classroom misconduct must be reported to MU’s Office of Student Accountability and Support. Allegations of academic misconduct must be reported to MU’s Office of Academic Integrity.

Professional Standards and Ethics
The School of Journalism is committed to the highest standards of academic and professional ethics and expects its students to adhere to those standards. Students should be familiar with the Code of Ethics of the Society of Professional Journalists and adhere to its restrictions. Students are expected to observe strict honesty in academic programs and as representatives of school-related media. Should any student be guilty of plagiarism, falsification, misrepresentation or other forms of dishonesty in any assigned work, that student may be subject to a failing grade from the instructor and such disciplinary action as may be necessary under University regulations.

Copyright in course materials
The materials you encounter in your coursework at Mizzou is subject to many different types of copyright protection, depending on the author as well as how it is used. In a single course you may encounter materials created by your instructor, an article that is shared with you in an extemporaneous way under the Teach Act and materials such as course packets where each copy includes a royalty payment to the author. As a student, you are responsible for how you use course materials and must ensure that the rights of copyright holders are not violated by sharing them, posting materials online, etc.

Student work and copyright
Just like materials created by your instructor are protected by copyright, the things you create as a student are owned by you. For example, if your instructor uses TurnItIn to check for plagiarism in student papers, the University has an agreement with TurnItIn so that no papers are shared with that company and are only used to cross-reference.

Audio and Video Recordings of Classes
University of Missouri System Executive Order No. 38 lays out principles regarding the sanctity of classroom discussions at the university. The policy is described fully in Section 200.15 of the Collected Rules and Regulations. In this class, students may make audio or video recordings of course activity unless specifically prohibited by the faculty member. However, the redistribution of audio or video recordings of statements or comments from the course to individuals who are not students in the course is prohibited without the express permission of the faculty member and of any students who are recorded. Students found to have violated this policy are subject to discipline in accordance with provisions of section 200.020 of the Collected Rules and Regulations of the University of Missouri pertaining to student conduct matters.
Office for Civil Rights & Title IX Information:
University of Missouri policies prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, ancestry, religion, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, pregnancy, age, genetic information, disability and protected veteran status. Discrimination includes any form of unequal treatment such as denial of opportunities, harassment, and violence. Sex-based violence includes rape, sexual assault, unwanted touching, stalking, dating/interpersonal violence, and sexual exploitation.

If you experience discrimination, you are encouraged (but not required) to report the incident to the MU Office for Civil Rights & Title IX. Learn more about your rights and options at civilrights.missouri.edu or call 573-882-3880. You also may make an anonymous report online. Students may also contact the Relationship & Sexual Violence Prevention (RSVP) Center, a confidential resource, for advocacy and other support related to rape or power-based personal violence at rsvp@missouri.edu or 573-882-6638, or go to rsvp.missouri.edu.

Both the Office for Civil Rights & Title IX and the RSVP Center can provide assistance to students who need help with academics, housing, or other issues.

Required Referral: Mizzou employees are required to refer all incidents of sex discrimination to the Office for Civil Rights & Title IX. The Office connects students with resources and helps them decide whether they wish to file a complaint of discrimination. To learn more, contact title9@missouri.edu or 573-882-3880, or go to civilrights.missouri.edu.

Students with Disabilities:
If you anticipate barriers related to the format or requirements of this course, if you have emergency medical information to share with me, or if you need to make arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please let me know as soon as possible. If disability-related accommodations are necessary (for example, a note taker, extended time on exams, captioning), please register with the MU Disability Center, S5 Memorial Union, 573-882-4696, and then notify me of your eligibility for reasonable accommodations.

Religious Holidays
Students are excused for recognized religious holidays. Let your instructor know in advance if you have a conflict. For more information on the University’s commitment to religious diversity, please visit https://diversity.missouri.edu/religions/

Intellectual Pluralism
The University community welcomes intellectual diversity and respects student rights. Students who have questions concerning the atmosphere in this class (including respect for diverse opinions) may contact your faculty chair or associate dean; the director of the Office of Students Rights and Responsibilities at http://osrr.missouri.edu or the MU Equity Office at equity@missouri.edu.

All students will have the opportunity to submit an anonymous evaluation of the instructor(s) at the end of the course.
FERPA
The University of Missouri maintains educational records of students in accordance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA). Related topics include privacy policies at MU, display of student directory information and details about how MU manages FERPA-protected information.

Professional Values and Competencies:
The Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications requires that, irrespective of their particular specialization, all graduates should be aware of certain core values and competencies and be able to:
